About the Conference

The Conference aims at bringing together persons having academic interest in diverse areas of Indian Studies. These will include scholars, academics, authors, writers, journalists, media-persons, artists and others interested in Indian / Vedic Studies.

World Association for Vedic Studies, known by its acronym ‘WAVES’ is a multidisciplinary academic society with members of different religions, often of different scholarly views and varied interests. It welcomes persons engaged/interested in studying in any field of Vedic/ Indian studies. The word ‘Vedic’ is used in a wide sense to include, not only Vedas, but all different areas as well as past, present and future of traditions and people based on Vedas.

Other nine conferences held before were: “Int’l Conference on Revisiting Indus - Saraswati Civilization & Ancient India”, Atlanta (GA), October 4-6, 1996, “International Conference on New Perspectives on Vedic & Ancient Indian Civilization”, Los Angeles (CA), August 7-9, 1998, “International Conference on Contemporary Views on Indian Civilization”, Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, (NJ), July 28-30, 2000, “India’s Contributions and Influences in the World”, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth (MA) July 12-14, 2002. “India’s Intellectual Traditions In Contemporary Global Context”, July 9– 11, 2004, University of MD, Washington, DC area. “Vedic Ideas for Global Harmony and Peace in the Modern Context”, July 8-10, 2006, University of Houston, Houston, Texas. “Vedic heritage for Global Welfare of Next Generation”, June 27-29, 2008, Orlando, FL, “Vedic Knowledge for Civilizational Harmony”, August 4-7, 2010, Trinidad, West Indies. “Varna Jati and Kula – A conference on India’s caste system”, July 29-31, Piscataway, NJ.

These conferences, in the past, were attended by persons from Australia, Austria, Bali (Indonesia), Belgium, Canada, Caribbean, China, Germany, India, Japan, Mexico, Nepal, Netherlands, Surinam, UK, and USA, USSR, etc.

WAVES conferences in the past sixteen years have always been a meeting point of leading scholars, researchers and research /teaching institutions, dedicatedly deliberating on Vedic studies.

WAVES-2012 is scheduled for three days. The deliberations in the conference will cover a wide array invited lectures and paper presentation sessions around the various themes.

Poster sessions, special sessions focused on Vedic sciences and research, youth committee presentations, Hindu temples presentations, Non-roman script Digital technologies for web representation and online education of Vedic studies, Audio-visual exhibits, Practical Vedic religious performances and learning workshop, exhibits and book-shops are other interesting parts of the conference.

Suggested topics can cover a wide area including: Insider/Outsider perspectives on Vedic culture, Origin of Vedic knowledge, Changing paradigms on Vedic knowledge, etc.
